

Man, son die in apartment house fire

By Dennis Grubaugh
Managing editor

GRANITE CITY — A man and his 2-year-old son died in an apartment house fire in the 1700 block of Cleveland Boulevard early Wednesday morning, but heroic efforts allowed eight others to escape with only minor injuries.

Robert C. Gibson, 42, and his son, Robert P. Gibson, perished in the blaze that began shortly after 1:30 a.m. The cause is still under investigation.

Gibson's body was found in the bathtub of his first-floor apartment — one of three four-room apartments in the building. His son's body was found behind a recliner in the rear of the building. Family members believe Gibson may have been burned and made it to the bathroom in an attempt to recover.

A post-mortem examination showed high levels of carbon monoxide in both bodies.

An apartment building next door, 1700-02 Cleveland, which was also destroyed, is owned by Dean Aerne of Granite City. It contained two apartments, only one of which was occupied at the time of the fire. No one there was hurt, firefighters said.

The apartment building where the fire started, 1704-10, is owned by Charles Stone of Granite City. He also owns two apartment buildings immediately northeast on Cleveland, neither of which was damaged by the fire.

Escaping the flames were upstairs tenants, Gail Christian and her three children, and Debbie and James Byrd and their two sons. Members of the Byrd family were taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment of smoke inhalation and then were released.

Gibson's wife, Dawn, was not home at the time of the fire. She was called home from her job as a dancer at Roxy's nightclub in Brooklyn at approximately 2:30 a.m. Fire officials said she had to be sedated and taken to the hospital.

Her husband was unemployed.

Fire Chief Jerry Wallace said a young boy, James A. Byrd, who is a first-grader at Prather Elementary School, was the real hero of the morning.

The boy, who lived in the upstairs apartment of the same house as the Gibsons, woke up and smelled smoke. He immediately awakened his parents and they escaped just as the house was burning.

Two deadly fires closest in memory

GRANITE CITY — Wednesday's fatal fire was the city's second in five days — the first time that's happened in many years, according to firefighters.

Fire Chief Jerry Wallace said it had been "a lot of years" since there had been two fatal fires so close together. And Assistant Fire Chief Bob Bell said he could not remember it happening in the 26 years he has been on the force.

The previous fire occurred last Friday and claimed the life of Charles F. Constant, of the 2400 block of Edwards Street. It has been ruled as accidental.

Wallace was proud of the efforts of his crew. He described his firefighters Wednesday as "a bunch of whipped puppies" who are handling themselves well.

"These guys last night were really something," Wallace said. "Considering the amount of fire and the close proximity of the houses, it is absolutely amazing the third house was saved."

"When I got to the scene there were fireballs lapping at that third house."

Granite gives final approval to burning leaves

GRANITE CITY — It's official — city residents will be able to burn leaves beginning at 1 p.m. Oct. 6.

But residents who don't want to burn their leaves shouldn't call the city for "leaf sucker upper" service.

Last night, the City Council approved an ordinance that permits limited leaf burning from 1 to 5 p.m. from the first Saturday of October through the first Sunday of December. The ordinance applies to this year only.

But the aldermen also decided to withdraw their approval for purchase of a leaf vacuum machine.

At a Sanitation Committee meeting prior to the council meeting, Mayor Von Cruse said he would veto the purchase of what he called a "leaf sucker-upper" if he had to, but suggested the aldermen withdraw their approval first.

Cruse said Street Superintendent Mac Warfield had talked to a number of people, including the firm selling the vacuum, and the consensus was it would not be capable of handling the city's leaves.

Warfield, who was also at the committee meeting, agreed the experts had said one vacuum machine would not do the job for the city. He said the best it could cover would be 10 blocks of leaves a day.

Sixth Ward Alderman Judy Whitaker, chairman of the Sanitation Committee, insisted the vacuum was only part of a larger leaf-disposal program that could eventually include a drop-off point for leaves and a composting plant.

Warfield suggested, as he had at the last City Council meeting, that the city take the $19,000 designated for the leaf vacuum and lease a new street sweeper instead. He said a sweeper could handle much more than 10 blocks of leaves a day.

Whitaker, who said she knew she was losing the leaf burning battle, agreed Jim Miller voted against the ordinance. Third Ward Alderman Andy Timko and 6th Ward Alderman Walter Milton were not present.

The motion to withdraw approval for the purchase of the leaf vacuum machine, made by 7th Ward Alderman Emerald Daves, was unanimously approved.

Prior to the council meeting, the aldermen were each given a letter opposing leaf burning sent by the Better Breathers Club of St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Opponents criticize Nameoki landfill proposal

By Andy Siering and John Milazzo
Staff writers

EDWARDSVILLE — A spokesman for opponents of a proposed 200-acre recycling and landfill facility criticized its planned location near Canteen Lake in Nameoki Township during a public hearing Wednesday.

The proposed processing plant and storage site for baled garbage, or "balefill," is planned for a tract northwest of the intersection of Interstate Routes 70-55 and Illinois Route 11, on the western shore of the lake, 1/2-mile east of Big Bend Road.

The plan calls for an above-ground area of 62 acres to be used for the landfill. Compacted trash bales weighing up to two tons would be stacked and covered with soil up to eventual height of 85 feet.

Under state law, counties must conduct a site hearing to determine the need for a new landfill and whether the proposed facility meets state environmental standards and other criteria.

At the first day of a Madison County governmental hearing Wednesday at the County Courthouse, George Moran of Granite City, a retired Illinois appellate judge, was the spokesman for the Madison County Conservation Alliance. The alliance is opposed to the facility sought by Springfield-based Environmental Control Systems Inc.

Moran said the alliance and several others opposed to the facility "will prove (the site) is a wetlands area" and is protected by federal and state laws.

As wetlands, the developers will have to deal with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to obtain permission to use the land, according to Moran, who also said the county's long-range solid-waste management plan forbids the siting of landfill operations in wetland areas.

Moran called attention to a federal (See LANDFILL, Page 8A)

Earthquake! Tremor arouses curiosity

GRANITE CITY — Police Chief Don Knight said his department was swamped with calls following an earthquake yesterday morning.

"People who felt it wanted to know what it was," he said. "Finally, we got word over the wire it was an earthquake."

The quake, which official described as mild, shook parts of Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas and Tennessee. It was initially registered as 4.6 on the Richter Scale and was centered 10 miles south of Cape Girardeau, Mo.

The earthquake was recorded at 8:19 a.m. Wednesday and lasted about 10 seconds.

Knight said it was his understanding the quake's center was on the New Madrid Fault, which is the subject of a prediction by New Mexico climatologist Ben Browning and speculation by a host of other experts.

Browning, who predicted the earthquake that rocked the San Francisco Bay area last October, said a massive earthquake will occur along the New Madrid Fault on Dec. 3, give or take two days, to be followed by a series of smaller quakes.

His prediction is being disputed by most seismologists.

Knight said, "Face it, we all know there's going to be an earthquake, probably in our lifetime, but we just don't know when."

An earthquake in a disaster like the one, the city will be faced with thousands of little problems no one ever thinks about, like being unable to pump gas for cars and trucks, and all the city services will become one big all-purpose service.

"Our department is as prepared as any other department," he said.

Knight said he is satisfied with the city's earthquake emergency plans and is sure that, along with Civil Defense Director Louise Wade, the fire department and other city departments, "It's not going to be fun or easy, but it will be handled."

AN ARTIST'S conception of the planned PVO Foods processing plant in Granite City.

PVO to begin construction

GRANITE CITY — Holland-Hinrichs Construction Inc. has been awarded a contract for construction of the new PVO Foods processing plant and offices at the intersection of 19th and West 20th streets in Granite City. Construction is expected to start by Oct. 1.

The $2 million, one-story, 71,000-square-foot structure will feature 62,000 square feet of processing and storage space and 9,000 square feet of laboratory and office space.

The facade of the all-metal building will be dramatized by a blue metal portico with large square openings, extending off the building to create an architectural sculpture.

The plant will process vegetable oils for the food industry and is expected to create 100 new jobs.

Building, planning, design and construction for this facility require compliance with U.S. Department of Agriculture food processing specifications and complex structural, mechanical, electrical and refrigeration requirements.

Completion of the project is scheduled for March 1991.

Architect is The Henderson Group Inc.

Holland-Hinrichs is a full-service design/build company. The firm provides design/build service for commercial, retail, industrial and multi-family projects. Its headquarters are at 4485 N. Illinois St., Belleville.

Realtor files suit, claims defamation

By John Milazzo
Staff writer

A Granite City real estate agent, in a civil lawsuit filed Sept. 19 in Madison County, is seeking damages in excess of $30,000 from a former client from Collinsville for defamation of character.

John Krekovich, owner of Krekovich Realty, 2787 Madison Ave., filed the suit against Dominic L. Meyer of Collinsville. The suit alleges that Meyer defamed Krekovich and made false statements about him.

According to the suit, the alleged defamatory statements were contained in letters of complaint Meyer wrote in May to the Ethics and Grievance Committee of the Granite City Board of Realtors and the Illinois Department of Professional Regulation.

Meyer's complaints were focused on a contract with Krekovich in 1985 involving a house and 96 acres of land that Meyer sought to buy for $250,000.

Meyer later declined to buy the property because its value was diminished by gas lines which were not where it had been said they were, according to the lawsuit.

The suit said Meyer sent the letters after a St. Clair County judge a year ago ordered Meyer to pay Krekovich $50,000.

Krekovich on Tuesday declined to comment on the lawsuit.

Meyer also declined to comment, other than to say that he had not been served with a copy of the lawsuit, as of Tuesday.

Deadlines set for military, international holiday mail

Holiday mail for military and international destinations should be sent as early as Oct. 1 to allow extra time to assure delivery, the Postal Service advises. Equipping Operation Desert Shield, the U.S. military presence in Saudi Arabia, has required extra effort by U.S. air and ship transportation. Therefore, last-minute overseas mailing will add a greater burden to the system, a Postal Service spokesman said.

The Postal Service issues holiday mailing deadlines every year for letters and parcels headed overseas.

Oct. 1, this year's earliest deadline, applies to regular surface mail going to the most distant destinations. Surface mail is the least expensive international service available for mailing to civilians.

When mailing abroad, it is wise to call the post office about foreign countries' mailing restrictions and custom requirements.

To ensure the timely arrival at overseas destinations for Christmas delivery, people are being advised to post all mail in the continental United States on or before the following dates in 1990.

The first date listed is for international mailings, when applicable; the second date is for military listings.

Outbound Surface Mail:

Africa, Oct. 1, Oct. 26; Alaska, military only, Nov. 1; Hawaii, military only, Oct. 15; Australia, Oct. 1, Nov. 15; Caribbean, both Nov. 2; Europe, both Nov. 2; Far East, Oct. 1, Oct. 12; Greenland, military only, Oct. 27.

Middle East, Oct. 1, Nov. 3; Southeast Asia, Oct. 1, Nov. 8; and Central and South America, Oct. 1, Nov. 2.

Outbound Air Mail:

Parcel Airmail Mail (PAL) and Space Available Mail (SAM) provide combinations of surface and air transport to military addresses overseas destinations as follows:

Name change significant

Belleville Area College's announced intention to change the name of the institution is an indication that college officials do indeed realize the regional impact of the school.

For years, BAC has been criticized, by us and others, for not paying more attention to its Granite City and Red Bud campuses, but instead channeling the bulk of attention to the Belleville center.

That criticism is waning in the wake of recent appointments of both Granite City and Red Bud representatives to the school's board of trustees.

But it is also time for the school to recognize it has outgrown its name. A large chunk of BAC's 23,000 students, if not the majority, are not from Belleville. They are from the myriad of other communities in Metro East and beyond. The college district, after all, encompasses 2,100 square miles.

With enrollment on the increase, a favorable audit, a bettering relationship among board members, and good, viable programs, this college wants to be regional. The name is the first place to start.

The regional concept has been recognized for many years by comparable institutions, such as Lewis and Clark, Forest Park and Meramec community colleges.

So what do we call it? How about Metro-East Community College? Or Southwestern Illinois Community College? Or Riverview Community College?

Time will tell. Perhaps you have an idea.

When to blow the whistle?

The Driver Safety Advisory Committee of the Illinois Secretary of State's Office has withdrawn its proposed rule encouraging people to tattle on their aging relatives who may be experiencing difficulty in driving. The office still may order a new driving test, however, upon receiving a tip from a doctor, police officer, prosecutor or judge.

Despite this decision, "whistle blowing" obviously is not going to go away. The Taxpayers Federation of Illinois is inviting taxpayers to alert it when local-level governments decide to renege money in unusual or extravagant ways.

The federation would really like to hear from former board members who have inside knowledge about financial abuses.

Douglas Whitley, longtime TFI president, hopes to spotlight actions that are not illegal but may be wasteful — accumulation of excessive cash reserves, frequent abolition and reinstatement of working cash funds and operating without budget restraints, among them.

The federation also will take heed of newspapers' exposes about governmental spending. We think that's a good idea, but please don't ask us how we feel about it when Grandma gets behind the steering wheel.

Duty calls Warriors again

Granite City High School football usually isn't the subject of editorial comment here, but it is looming large in the thoughts of many School District 9 residents this week. As is true every autumn, East St. Louis High has assembled an awesome team. It nearly always is rated the best in the nation, bolstered by long winning streaks, conference conquests and state championships. But being better than everybody else brings with it not only added attention, helpful in competing for college scholarships, but also the burden of added pressure.

For strictly humanitarian reasons, it is important to keep that pressure from becoming too heavy. A "Jack the Giant Killer" clearly is needed. So, the football Warriors of Granite City see it as not only a desirable goal but also a solemn duty to rise to the occasion and beat the best of the best.

In 1986, Warrior athletes won the Southwestern Conference crown by, among other achievements, defeating the Flyers and halting a seemingly endless victory streak. That kind of opportunity has arisen once again, here tomorrow night; ever since that 1986 loss, East Side has won every non-playoff game. Surely it would be the right thing, a noble deed, to upset the Flyers' apparent one more time.

East St. Louis may be on its way to a third straight Class 6A state title, but Granite City, after all, is undefeated. It will be great if both of these statements can still be made accurately on Saturday morning.

Odds, ends make evens

Today's column is dedicated to all the junk that I couldn't find room for in previous weeks. Let's call it odds and ends.

Odd: A man in Fort Wayne, Ind., recently visited a retirement exposition and came across a table filled with tasty-looking potato chips. He bit into one. A woman screamed. Turns out Gregory Fought had mistakenly mistaken a chip from the collection of Myrtle Young, who, for several years, has been saving chips that resemble famous people, animals and objects. This particular chip looked like a sand dollar.

I certainly can understand Myrtle's consternation. If once had a steak that looked like Lana Turner. But you know how that goes.

End: Yesterday's earthquake caught me by surprise. I was in the office elevator, of all places, the exact minute it hit. Never felt a thing. For the uninformed, every ride in the office elevator feels like the end is near.

Odd: A press release crossed my desk touting, "Jordbruksdagarna," and my first reaction was "geunduh!" Jordbruksdagarna, it turns out, is an annual autumn harvest festival held in Bishop Hill. The words are Swedish for "earth work days."

Unfortunately, the event was held last week. I wish I had said something sooner, but it took too long to write it.

Dennis Grubaugh

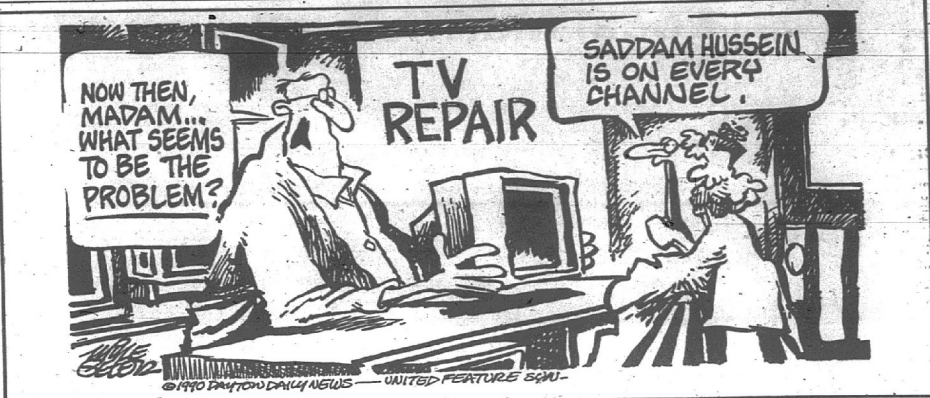

End: Nothing pleases me more than to watch government in action. Or is it inaction?

Recently the country of the Philippines investigated charges that its government-operated lottery was rigged. Feeling certain that they would restore confidence in the system, public officials televised a drawing in which the top prize of $200,000 went to the holder of the ticket with the right numbers. Believe it or not the guy holding the winner was Retired Brig. General Alfredo Lim, director of the National Bureau of Investigation, the agency that was investigating the charges.

Lim is anxious to continue the investigation.

End: Another interest is election campaigns, and I've taken a fancy to the Neil Hartigan-Jim Edgar clash for governor. Hartigan should win by a landslide. So far he's ahead in FAX transmissions to this office, 1,146 to 89. Edgar, however, is still better looking.

Dennis Grubaugh is managing editor of the Press-Record.

Letters

Needs help on information

To the editor:

I read the Press-Record issue of Sept. 13 "Salute to missing in action," relative to two Vietnam veterans from this area listed as missing in action or prisoners of war, Captain James Causey and Warrant Officer James Dayton. Their names appear on one of 29 plaques being placed at Illinois Interstate highway rest areas.

Capt. Causey was killed in action in Vietnam, as declared by military authorities in a letter to his parents. The news article appeared in the Press-Record. His airplane went down in Tonkin Bay, and the body was never recovered.

Warrant Officer Leslie Dayton, a helicopter pilot, was killed May 8, 1968, in Vietnam. Crew members verified the crash, and the body was unable to be recovered. A memorial service was held at the Granite City Depot for him.

It is apparent that these two local war veterans are confirmed dead, so it seems they cannot be listed as missing in action or prisoner of war, in my opinion.

I am taking the liberty of sending copies of the local paper to the permanent governor of Illinois, George Ryan, to show him the status of these fine young men who never made it back home from the Vietnam war.

Also, I am asking help in locating relatives of Vietnam casualty Pfc. William Hinkle. Killed in action in Vietnam, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Deneen L. Hinkle, Rural Route One of this area. He was a graduate of Granite City High School, class of 1966, and was a Green Beret.

He was a member of Grace Baptist Church here and the DeMolays. He was survived by three brothers, Charles, Iolyn and Danny.

This information is needed as soon as possible, as he is one of eight Vietnam veterans whose names will appear on streets named after them at the Army's Melvin Price Support Center in Granite City.

Ceremonies will be held to dedicate the streets in their memory at the new Army Complex Addition.

Anyone knowing of the whereabouts of relatives of Pfc. Hinkle, please contact me at 877-1338, as I am assisting the program planners in locating families of these deceased Vietnam veterans for ceremonies scheduled in October of this year.

Don't cast pro-death votes

To the editor:

All Christians are to be good Samaritans, to help those in need and especially help save lives when the opportunity is at hand. We are to try to rescue those who are unjustly led to slaughter.

Those who are doing nothing to try to save the lives of the children in the womb are in disobedience to God, because God makes us from conception and He refers to the baby in the womb to be a child.

Surely, God knows that we know the child is a living person when he moves or has a heart pumping his own blood. The pro-life candidates running for governor and U.S. senator have separated themselves from God.

Avoid sin; don't vote for them. THOMAS FLAVELL

Reasons to vote for Shimkus

To the editor:

This is a plea to all the voters of Madison County. Please take advantage of the opportunity you have to influence how your lives will be affected by elections.

I'll simplify the previous statement by saying, please vote. Voting is a right that we as Americans have been given and it is a privilege that many others in the world don't have.

Voting is our right and it is a privilege, but if we take it seriously, it is a responsibility. A responsible voter will learn as much as possible about each candidate and issue.

A responsible and intelligent voter will not blindly vote for a candidate just because of the political party the candidate belongs to. The race for Madison County treasurer provides an opportunity for all to vote for the person we feel is the best qualified to serve us.

John Shimkus is dedicated, hard-working and organized. He has exceptional leadership ability and adheres to the highest ethical standards. Democrats shouldn't vote for Shimkus just because of all the negative publicity generated by Mick Henkhaus. Democrats should vote for John because he will be able to accomplish for all the people.

Republicans shouldn't vote for Shimkus just because he happens to be a Republican. Republicans should vote for John because of what he will be able to accomplish for all the people.

Independent voters shouldn't vote for Shimkus just because of the damage that a one-party system can create in our country. Independent voters should vote for John because he will represent all with skill and integrity.

generously, we more than reached our goal.

It's ones like you along with foster parents who make a difference in foster children's lives.

We have not yet decided how best to spend our funds from the drive just ended. But be assured that next summer will be an unforgettable one, thanks to all.

Under-age drinker suffers

To the editor:

During the World War II years when a person was suspected of being a Communist, the FBI questioned that person extensively. It isn't Communism that is taking over the country. We have something else invading this country — social drinking.

There is hardly a gas station, grocery store, restaurant or bar that doesn't very easily get a license to sell liquor. There are some places that have enough liquor to float a battleship.

Recently, an 18-year-old sold liquor in a bar several times without producing an ID. The last time he was served and liquor was consumed, his car went out of control.

He was taken unconscious to an Alton hospital, where he had surgery on his skull. For four days, he was in intensive care, and later was moved to a private room.

I wish the bartender that sold that liquor for a few dollars would have to take his turn keeping a vigil at his bedside.

Oh yes, he got a haircut. His head had 25 stitches and he drags his left foot.

He may be damaged for life because a bartender served him liquor without an ID. I don't think he will be back to purchase any more liquor.

A tribute to St. Elizabeth's

To the editor:

I recently spent 20 days in St. Elizabeth Medical Center for a hip replacement and would like to say that I had only one complaint: that was that I had nothing to complain about.

Everybody, from the head nurses, to nurses' aides, to the boys who came to take us to therapy, and the therapist on duty, Julie Reed, were most gentle and considerate of every patient.

Some people complain, regardless of how they are treated. At times when the nurses are busy, it wouldn't hurt for the patient to consider the nurses' jobs. They are like you and me, only two arms and two legs.

Here is hoping that the next time a person complains about this hospital, he asks himself, "could you do any better?" I would recommend this hospital to all my friends.

Thanks to all the staff, and may God bless you all. Carry on the good work.

I am a satisfied patient who is, mending at home, thanks to all of you and also Dr. P. Anderson and Dr. T. Martin. You're the best. Also, a special thanks to Bud Zeiss, my home therapist.

Put candidate data in stores

To the editor:

To all grocery stores, I suggest you install a bulletin board for political information for each candidate on the local ballot.

Most municipalities have an ordinance against campaign posters for public office on public property. These ordinances were enacted by incumbent politicians.

The incumbents have the edge because they have proper contacts, which is no reflection of their abilities.

All citizens must buy groceries, and having a bulletin board at the store would give them an opportunity to leisurely study the ideas of each candidate.

At a time when one in five registered voters exercises his rights, when a majority of registered voters admit they don't vote, when a wealthy, well-financed incumbent has the advantage over an average citizen, it is necessary to get more citizens involved in this basic process of democracy.

Since eating is a basic necessity of life and since free elections are a basic necessity of freedom, I believe they belong under the same roof.

Local Marine says Saudi Arabia ... '7 miles from water and 6 feet from hell'

The following is a letter to his parents from Marine Cpl. Paul Tretter, also of Granite City, now serving with "Operation Desert Shield" in Saudi Arabia.

His parents are Melvin and Shirley Tretter, also of Granite City. Melvin Tretter served with the U.S. Army in Korea.

The letter, which Tretter's mother describes as most "serious" than she is accustomed to getting from Paul, offers an informative glimpse of what U.S. soldiers in Saudi Arabia are going through.

The reference to Hawaii in the letter alludes to the base where Tretter was stationed before he was sent to the desert. He is a mechanic who works on helicopters.

The letter took nine days to get here after it was posted.

On Oct. 5, Tretter will celebrate his 23rd birthday, in Saudi Arabia.

Dear Mom and Dad, Hello from Saudi Arabia. Ah, yes!

Fun in the sun. We're seven miles from water and six feet from hell.

This has gotta be one of the ugliest countries on earth. Sand is everywhere. The heat here wouldn't be so bad if it weren't so hot!

Hawaii is an ice box compared to this place. And there's some mean looking critters running around in this sand. I was playing around with a black scorpion yesterday until I found one sting from its tail contained lethal poison with no antidote.

I think I was meant to be a leisure marine with TV, stereo, and places to go and things to see. Not so, says the Pentagon. So, here I am with the camels and the snakes.

My flight over here was unbelievable. You've never experienced turbulence until you have refueled in flight. And we did that twice and made only one stop, in Thailand.

I've already received two letters from you. They only took nine days each, not bad for Uncle Sam.

We only get one hot meal a day. I can't believe I said that. I rephrase that: We only get one hot cooked meal a day at the chow tents. The other two meals a day are "trash in a bag."

Everyone has a temper, a stern face, and a bad stare, but we make the best out of each day. I sleep in a tent with some of this bunch. These guys aren't so bad, just stupid sometimes. We sit around and play cards and wait for word out of Washington or Baghdad when things are going to get rollin'.

So I guess everything back home? I don't even know the name of this place yet. All I know is they stuck us eight next to a huge pile of sleeping quarters. Guessing, huh? A great place to be if the Iraqis choose to attack.

Nobody is worried, because we're the third line of defense. We have over a hundred helicopters here including a squadron from Kuwait and one Iranian CH-53 helicopter. We have excellent missile defense systems. We have early warning chemical attack alarms. So, we're sitting pretty safe.

As far as work is concerned, I do here is read, work and play cards. I found out we can get bulk mail up to 70 pounds a package. If I would have known that, I would have had Kurt send my guitar to me. But I packed it up.

It's really boring here. The helicopters here including a squadron from Kuwait and one Iranian CH-53 helicopter. We have excellent missile defense systems. We have early warning chemical attack alarms. So, we're sitting pretty safe.

heat wakes you up about 8 in the morning. I have been going to work at 2 p.m. and getting off work at midnight, sometimes a little earlier or later depending on what we're working on. We all hop in the back of a pickup truck and get to work.

We made a sign for our tent. We call it the Bad Sands Motel. Under the sign it reads "Pit stop to hell, no vacancy." Everyone has signs on their tents.

Oh, I found the name of this place; it's called Al-Jabor. It was a small commercial airport; now it's a very large tactical base. We have bunkers all around the base, with machine guns sticking through a hole.

The patrols at night wear night-vision goggles. Security is good. I've seen them search for our bombs at the gate.

It's all serious. Everyone has a weapon. Mine is an M16 rifle with bayonet and 60 rounds divided into two magazines. If I need more, they'll give me more.

I can't wait to come home again. I don't know if I'll take leave again or not. They say we'll be here for at least five months. Maybe when I get back I'll take leave.

If you have any questions about this place or anything over here, be specific. It's hard to write down little things right now because I'm trying to give the overall picture in a general. Tell everyone I said "Hi."

Nobody better dare complain about this place or anything back soon I don't have nothing much to do but write.

Shannon assured me he had not been to Kuwait, but I should take another look at the map.

On this phone call he told me that the road he had traveled on Aug. 2 had come within 10 miles of the border with Iraq. That road has been closed to civilian travel.

He said he remembered having seen an unusual number of cars with Kuwaiti license plates. He had assumed that, at this time of year, the cars were carrying people on vacation.

A stadium in Riyadh is being used to house refugees and some government housing is being opened up for Kuwaitis. The government is doing what it can to ease the refugee situation.

Like other Mid-East countries, Saudi Arabia has thousands of foreign workers attracted by the work opportunities the oil industry has spawned. There is a feeling of tension.

Saudi Arabia had given money to Yemen, which has now sided with Iraq. There are many Yemeni workers in Saudi Arabia and they are being viewed with distrust. It is understood that Jordan is in a precarious position.

There is concern about the loyalties of the Palestinians and the Jordanians.

Workers may not be loyal, but potentially be subversive, but Saudi replacements are not available.

St. John 8:7 "He that is without sin among you let him cast the first stone."

People are always ready to condemn us for our sins. It is hard for us to forgive one another. We seem to remember forever when one does something wrong. This is our nature, but God has a different attitude about our sins. He does not want us to sin, but if we do He is ready and willing to forgive and forget.

Have you committed a sin that you think God will not forgive you for? The Bible teaches us that God is willing to forgive all sin. So, even if people will not forgive you, God will and that is the important thing. Jesus said to the woman taken in adultery "neither do I condemn thee; go and sin no more." St. John 8:11. He will say the same thing to you. Ask Him today.

•Landfill

"Wetlands Act," passed to protect remaining wetlands, that took effect in August 1989. He said the question of the facility's location is "subject to the jurisdiction of the federal government."

Moran said that today he would question Environmental Control Systems President Doug Andrews of Springfield concerning whether the landfill would be in compliance with each of the regulations passed recently by the Madison County Pollution Control Board.

In testimony during the hearing, Andrews said a Corps of Engineers "wetland inventory map shows that two or three small areas within the tract are 'potential' wetland areas."

Another part of the tract planned for the facility may be subject to Corps overview as a wetland area and the corporation "will have to get a permit from them" for that use, Andrews said.

The proposed site would have at least a 20-year life span, Andrews said, adding that it was designed to exceed state standards for environmental safety. Those design plans call for a five-foot compacted clay liner; state standards call for a three-foot liner.

Also in the plans are a plastic membrane to cover the liner, a sand drainage system to collect contaminated water leaching from the bales, and a system for trapping and reusing methane gas generated by decomposing waste.

Andrews testified under cross-examination that the total containment system is barely short of federal standards for hazardous-waste landfills.

He also said, several times, that the site will not accept hazardous wastes, although it will accept "special wastes" such as metal scrapings contained in shop-floor sweepings.

Andrews said medical wastes, sewage and chemical sludge would not be accepted.

He said that in 1971 he began his career as a designer or consultant on about 75 waste-management facilities, acknowledged he was the designer and consultant for the Earthline industrial waste facility at Wilsonville in Macoupin County.

Through his experience with the IEPA, Andrews said, he was sons; Marilyn McGuire, a Texas attorney; and Gynell Hartbarger. The latter's husband, Kenneth Hartbarger, formerly of Granite City, owned property in Wilsonville where the controversial Earthline landfill was located. McGuire is the Hartbargers' daughter.

Andrews promised that 35 percent of the plant's waste stream would be recycled, and he said it was possible that 70 percent or more could be recycled. Much of the flammable volume would be compressed into "fuel pellets," he said the fuel pellets would be sold through a national network of companies committed to using such "secondary fuels."

Under questioning by his attorney, Thomas Long of Godfrey, Andrews said that new state solid-waste mandates place a priority on waste reduction. He said the facility would create 50 jobs.

Andrews, a designer or consultant on about 75 waste-management facilities, acknowledged he was the designer and consultant for the Earthline industrial waste facility at Wilsonville in Macoupin County.

Through his experience with the IEPA, Andrews said, he was aware that in the early 1970s "no one was recycling industrial wastes" and that toxic, flammable and explosive wastes "were going straight into landfills."

He said he believed there was an "acute" need for a facility where such wastes could be properly disposed of. In 1975, he seized an opportunity to leave the IEPA and design Wilsonville, he said.

Andrews said he was not the engineer or operator of the Wilsonville facility, which was closed after a class-action suit brought by Wilsonville residents. They maintained the facility posed a health hazard.

Andrews said he was not a defendant in that suit but was a defendant in a subsequent suit brought by neighboring property owners over diminished property values.

Under questioning by Lewis Mallott, an assistant state's attorney who is representing the County Board, Andrews admitted that the method used to test the soils at the Wilsonville Earthline landfill had been criticized by environmental experts. But Andrews insisted that the method had been sound.

He also testified that enough clay was present at the proposed Nameoki Township landfill to prevent wastes from leaching into nearby Canteen Lake and Horseshoes Lake.

Mallott asked what sort of assets ECS has. Andrews cited its option on the land and the partners' assets. He refused to say what those assets were, but he said they were sufficient to build the $12 million to $30 million project.

The land is owned by Jerry W. Fowles of Laddons Mo.

Mallott asked whether ECS had purchased or set up any mechanisms for any lawsuits and maintenance on the landfill once it is filled up and sealed — years in the future. These include commercial insurance, performance bonds, trust funds or self-insurance.

"Right now we don't have any," Andrews said. His attorney, Long, objected, saying ECS can't obtain any of the above until the landfill gets licensed. County board member Don Garrett of Madison asked Andrews if the landfill's plan to separate wastes for recycling would discourage people from doing it themselves. Andrews said he didn't think so, but that in any event, 60 percent of the total waste stream will be generated by businesses, which are unlikely to hire extra people to sort their garbage.

Andrews said the ECS plant would accept waste from outside as well as inside Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties.

He said under questioning that nothing from the landfill would leach into Canteen Lake, which he said is only about 550 feet away from the landfill.

Board Member Dick Worthen wanted to know why ECS's investors feel they can make a profit when recycling efforts elsewhere have failed. Andrews countered by saying "the economics of waste disposal have changed."

Andrews said the landfill would pay truck-tipping fees to the county and the state, based on total tonnage minus recyclables.

Worthen asked if ECS would consider operating a recycling center without a landfill, and Andrews said no.

Andrews said the company would build a road parallel to the Cahokia Canal and connecting Illinois 203 and 111.

engulfed in flames.

If it were not for him, they would not have gotten out of the house," Wallace said.

A number of other people were involved in trying to get the victims out of the house, including a distant cousin, Jeffrey Gibson, who was visiting friends at a house next door at the time.

"I broke into the Plexiglas (rear door) to get inside and was down by my hands and knees. The smoke was too bad and I couldn't see nothing. I was coughing," he said.

Although he could hear cries from the child, Jeffrey Gibson passed within feet of him and could not see him.

Seconds later, two other men broke into the back of the house, grabbed Jeffrey Gibson and threw him outside, apparently not knowing that he wasn't a resident. He suffered only minor injuries from the fire.

At least four other persons, from the 1700 block of Delmar Avenue, attempted to rescue, rescued or alerted residents. They were identified by bystanders as Tracy, Clark, Marty Clark, Dave Clark and Ricky Holland.

Two of the luckier residents of the area were Rose Thompson, 35, and her fiancée, Bill Wigner, 39, who live in one of Stone's apartments immediately next door. Ironically, they had moved from the victims' building the weekend before.

"We were living in the upstairs apartment, and were wanting a downstairs apartment. This came open, so we took it. I thank God it wasn't me.

Somebody was watching out for us," Thompson said.

The upstairs apartments appeared to have suffered the most damage.

It was Thompson who called the fire department, after being alerted by her daughter, Tammy Borch, who lives in a house to the rear, at 1710 Cleveland.

Boarch said Robert C. Gibson, Jeffrey Gibson and others were together drinking beer, in the hours before the fire. Robert Gibson was also apparently taking Valium, his friends said.

Boarch said she remembered Robert Gibson going home. "I looked out my window and saw him turn out his lights. It wasn't two minutes later and I saw all these people running around."

She then alerted her mother to the fire.

Both Rose Thompson and Assistant Fire Chief Bob Bell said there were smoke detectors at the fire scene.

"I worked with Charlie (Stone) on getting smoke detectors in all these buildings," Thompson said.

The victims' bodies were removed just after 8 a.m., even as firefighters were huddling in other areas of the building. Removal of the bodies was delayed until investigators could videotape the interior of the house.

Fire Chief Wallace said, "The origin is impossible to determine. We've sort of narrowed it down, but I doubt if we will ever definitely be able to pin it down. The fire appeared to start in the center of the house, but the whole second floor in the center fell in, and to dig it up could take two weeks."

returned to his homeland on vacation, had a brush with the Israeli government, which confiscated his passport, and has not been able to return to Riyadh.

An Iraqi co-worker left for a visit to Baghdad and has called saying it is not convenient for him to return now. A Pakistani co-worker has gone to the government in his country has been overthrown. Shannon says it is hard just now to be very productive.

He recently had his visa renewed at the Egyptian Embassy. He had planned to go to Egypt for a long weekend for Christiane's sister's engagement party. Christiane lives at Heliopolis near Cairo.

They talk frequently by phone, but not about politics. Because of the uncertainties of the situation, he will not go to Cairo for the long weekend; he will stay in Riyadh "until what happens will happen." He does not have any unused vacation time.

His contract with SABIC ends in September. He has been given a renewal contract to sign. He plans to sign the contract.

He says he feels safe. Riyadh is in a central province and the Iraqis will be interested in the eastern province where the oil fields are.

He is about a six-hour drive by car from the military zone. He has his passport and visa and emergency escape funds. He will be watching the situation carefully. He does not feel the need to get out now.

Sept. 3, 1990:

I called Shannon at 4 p.m. our time. A foreigner answered.

"Allo." The man told me Shannon had gone to the post office.

I called back in about 45 minutes. Shannon told me I had talked to one of the homeless young man through friends and offered to share his apartment.

The start of the new school year will be delayed as schools are being used as housing for Kuwaiti refugees.

The American community is rallying to shore up soldier morale. This Thursday, Shannon will attend a barbecue for 20 soldiers housed in Riyadh hotels.

Shannon plans to go to Egypt on Sept. 26. He is asking off one week without pay as he does not have any vacation time left. He hopes—to "finalize arrangements" with Christiane and her family.

35 YEARS OF SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY

In 1955 two boyhood friends JACK DEMPSEY and DON ADAMS followed a dream and formed their own business. Jack was working for Allied Glass at 18th and State. Don was employed at Weigel's Service Station, 1302 Edwardsville Road. With $200, help from relatives and a friendly banker — the Dempsey and Adams Companies were formed.

At the time the Dempsey and Adams partnership was formed in 1955:

- Dwight Eisenhower was President — Richard Nixon Vice President
- One out of three American homes had a television set — "What's My Line" was a top rated show.
- The Hit Parade was led by Bill Haley and the Comets, "Rock Around the Clock", Elvis Presley's "Blue Suede Shoes" and Little Anthony's "Tear On My Pillow."

In Granite City in 1955

- Leonard Davis was Mayor and the pay of the Superintendent of Streets was raised to $425 per month.
- Schermer's Market was selling five pounds of onions for ten cents. Reese Drugs offered York Town cigarettes for $4.59 a carton.
- Featured at the Washington Theatre was "Cattle Queen of Montana" starring Barbara Stanwyck and Ronald Reagan. Featured at the Ken Theatre was "Susan Slept Here" with Debbie Reynolds.

Today, 35 years after its birth, the Dempsey and Adams Companies occupy a four building complex at 18th and Edison. Thirty-one people are employed and there are five companies — Granite City Glass, Granite Fence, Granite City Glass Home Improvement, Dempsey Adams Auto Body and Regency Leasing.

We sincerely hope that we've contributed to the growth and betterment of the community and to you and your family. Our hope is to continue to serve you in the years ahead and that you, the community, and the Dempsey and Adams Companies may continue to grow together.

The Reading Council will also present a Celebrate Literacy Award to Six Flags for its support of reading by students in elementary schools.

The Lewis and Clark Reading Council is an affiliate of the Illinois Reading Council and the International Reading Association.

Reading teachers, administrators and others who are interested in promoting the joy and importance of reading comprise the membership of the Council, which serves Macoupin, Madison, Monroe, Jersey and St. Clair counties.

The fall banquet will be held at the Ramada Inn in Fairview Heights on Tuesday, Oct. 9, at 6:30 p.m. For further information or to make reservations, persons may contact Wally Link, 377-1797, or Margie Wright, 344-7692, by Friday, Sept. 28.

Plan seminars on earthquakes

A series of seminars is being given by State Police Sgt. David Jung throughout the Metro East area. These preparedness seminars are designed to instruct individuals on what to do in the event of an earthquake.

There has been heightened awareness of the risks in the Midwest, especially since the quake that struck San Francisco one year ago. An earthquake in Missouri was felt here Wednesday. This part of the Midwest is near the New Madrid fault, which some say could produce a quake more devastating than those experienced in California.

The last time a major quake happened along the New Madrid fault in the early 1800s, there were reports of bells ringing in Boston as a result, and it changed the course of the Mississippi River.

The schedule for upcoming series is: Oct. 1, at 7:30 p.m. at the New Athens High School's new gymnasium; Oct. 9, at 10:30 a.m. at the Calvin Jordan Senior Center in East St. Louis and another at 7:30 p.m. at East St. Louis high school for residents of East St. Louis, Duplo and Cahokia; and Oct. 11, at 7:30 p.m. in the Caseyville Township Hall.

Besides St. Clair County, similar sessions are planned in the near future for Madison, Clinton, Monroe and Bond counties.

U.S. military power, mobility vital in Middle East

By Bill Winter

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — America has demonstrated its global power since Aug. 2 and must remain strong economically, diplomatically and militarily, Granite City Rotarians were told Tuesday.

The unacceptable alternative is that "our destiny would be in the hands of men such as Saddam Hussein," Col. Gerald R. Denny said. He is the Military Airlift Command's air crew training director.

Describing Operation Desert Shield as unprecedented in its mass movement of manpower and materials, he said the first "military units were on their way to the Middle East crisis area within 12 to 24 hours of the time their orders were received."

"Never before in history has any nation airlifted as many troops over as many miles as we did last month," Denny said.

"More than five billion pounds of equipment and supplies are being moved by ship, the equivalent of 1.7 million Dodge Daytonas produced by the Chrysler auto plant in Penton."

"If you lined up those Daytonas bumper to bumper, they would stretch from St. Louis to Atlanta 10 cars wide. That is the amount of tonnage the Transportation Command, based at Scott Air Force Base, has moved or is moving to the Persian Gulf; 95 percent goes by ship."

"Airlift also has been vital to the success of the operation, which has deterred Iraq from its clear plan to invade Saudi Arabia. During the first two weeks after Iraq invaded Kuwait, almost our entire deterrent efforts were dependent on the global reach of the U.S. Air Force.

"Our tactical air forces, F-15s, F-16s, A-10s and F-117s, were the vanguard of our deterrent in the early days. The F-15 is the most capable fighter aircraft in the world today. One of the key units we moved was the 1st Tactical Fighter Wing from Langley Air Force Base, Va.," Denny told the club.

"Before we could send our ground forces, fighter-bombers and support personnel, we first had to establish air superiority. If the enemy controls the skies, he would have a great advantage on the battlefield below."

"Along with that initial air armada, the ground forces that arrived in the first few weeks arrived by air — the 101st and 82nd Airborne divisions, the 11th Air Defense Artillery Brigade and the 1st, 4th and 7th Marine Expeditionary Brigades."

"These units, capable of moving by air, provided us our primary deterrent in early August. It was an incredible effort."

"Today, we still have 50 to 60 aircraft a day arriving in the Persian Gulf region, including active duty, Reserve, Guard and commercial charters," Denny said.

"For the first time, we are using all eight of our fast sealift ships. These were purchased several years ago when the price of fuel made them commercially inefficient. We had kept them in a state of readiness, and this allowed them to respond within 96 hours."

"Capable of cruising at 33 knots, these ships have combined capacity for more than 8,000 military vehicles."

"We're also using, for the first time in a contingency, our Ready Reserve Force — retired ships that can be called back into service. We've activated 40 cargo ships."

"Two other types of ships are being used. Afloat Prepositioned Ships that we had sitting in the Indian Ocean, loaded with fuel, ammunition, medical supplies and general support cargo, and Maritime Prepositioned Ships, containing all the equipment and supplies needed to support an entire Marine brigade."

"In many cases it is a combined effort, the personnel arriving by air — such as the 7th Marine Brigade and the 24th Mechanized Infantry Division — who then join up with their tanks, armored personnel carriers and other equipment that was moved to the Arabian peninsula by sea."

"This is a highly complex operation that the men and women of the Transportation Command are managing. It is moving smoothly and, so far, has deterred further aggression by Iraq."

"Two weeks before Saddam Hussein's forces invaded Kuwait, President George Bush outlined his plans for America's defense forces in the 1990s."

"In his speech at the Aspen Institute, he described his three top priorities for America's restructured forces: continued reliance on our technological advantages, a premium on readiness, and expanded capabilities in global reach."

"The success we have seen in Desert Shield has been the direct result of our technology, readiness and global capability. Our forces were outnumbered and, in fact, are still outnumbered. But our significant technological advantages in air superiority, deep interdiction assets, tank capability, ground-based air defense systems, and command and control capabilities provide us with a highly lethal force that can deter, or if necessary, defeat a force of greater size."

"This advanced technology would be of little use if our men and women were not properly trained and ready to use this technological advantage. With the warning time limited, there won't be time for training after a crisis begins."

"We don't know what Saddam Hussein will do tomorrow, but we do know about his duplicity, his brutality, his willingness to take hostages and use poison gases on women and children, and his links to international terrorism. We also know he is only three or four years away from fielding nuclear weapons."

"We are fortunate to be able to respond in a manner that understands," the speaker said.

"Our investment in armed forces in the past decade has been wise, giving us a well-equipped, well-trained, highly mobile force."

Ray Morgan presided at the luncheon at the Tri-City Area YMCA attended by about 100. Jack Dempsey introduced Col. Denny.

THE LAW AND YOU
BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

The question sometimes arises as to whether an employer can be held responsible for the negligent, willful, malicious or even criminal acts of its employees. To answer this question in a given case, one would have to look to the legal principle known as respondeat superior. The literal translation of this phrase from the Latin is "let the master answer." This doctrine allows a person injured by an employee to look to the employer for recovery in certain cases.

Illinois law provides that an employer may be liable for the negligent, willful, malicious, or criminal acts of its employees when such acts are committed in the course of employment and in furtherance of the business of the employer. The employer is not liable to an injured person where the acts complained of were done solely for the benefit of the employee.

In one recent case, a teacher's aide at a YMCA day care center allegedly beat and sexually assaulted a three-year old child who was a pupil at the facility. The parents filed suit against the aide and the YMCA and alleged that the teacher's aide sexually molested the child and struck her while the employee was in the course of her employment at the day care center. The YMCA moved to dismiss the part of the complaint directed at it, contending that the offensive acts were not done within the scope of the aide's employment. The Circuit Court granted the motion, and the complaint directed at the YMCA, and the plaintiff appealed this decision.

Should the YMCA be responsible for the intentional acts of its employees in this case? The Appellate Court ruled that the teacher's aide was not acting within the scope of her employment when she committed these acts but rather was acting solely for her own benefit when she assaulted and sexually molested the young girl. Therefore, the principle of respondeat superior was found not to apply in this case, and the YMCA was properly dismissed from the suit.

In a similar case decided in 1985, a security guard stopped a young girl after she made a purchase and led her to an enclosed office for the purpose of searching her. There he sexually molested her. The Court here also ruled that the employee's actions were a deviation from the scope of employment, and that the grocery store was not liable to the injured girl.

Warriors hope for '86 repeat

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — When the sun rises Friday morning, it will be 1,455 days since the East St. Louis Flyers football team last lost a regular-season game. As any Granite City football fan with no traces of amnesia remembers, the Flyers' last non-playoff loss came on Oct. 4, 1980 — a 17-14 decision to the Ron Yates-coached Warriors, who went on to win their first Southwestern Conference title in 40 years.

There weren't many good times for the Warriors in the next three years, while the Flyers rolled merrily along. They have won the last two Class 6A state titles. But the Warriors are on the way back, and a large crowd is expected for Friday's 7:30 p.m. game at Memorial Stadium. The Flyers (4-0, 1-0 in conference play) are still considered solid favorites against the Warriors (4-0, 2-0).

But East Side was a big favorite in 1986, too. "If I didn't think there was a possibility I wouldn't be out here working so hard," said Wyrostek. "When you're 4-0 you're pretty pleased with everything, but we're still working on fundamentals. I know everybody's tired of hearing me say it, but we can still be better in blocking and tackling."

Tom Wyrostek
... gaining respectability

Bob Stegemeier was an assistant to Yates in 1986, and he sees some similarities this year as the Flyers game approaches. "I don't know if our defense is quite as solid now as it was that year," said Stegemeier. "Guys like Charles Varber, John Kabendjian and Eric Ryterski were awful good players up front, and it was tough to throw against us with the Hogs in the backfield."

But these guys are coming around. We don't have the senior-dominated lineup now that we did then, so experience could be a factor. There are a lot of similar feelings this week as then.

The 1986 win was no fluke. The Warriors were the better team that day. They got an early field goal from Jimmy Parker, a Hogan-to-Hogan touchdown pass and a clinching touchdown run from Len Whiteside. The biggest play of the game was when Kevin Sutphin drilled (Marvin) Lampkin and knocked him out of the game," said Stegemeier. "That forced them to go to the air and we were able to handle it. It was different in the playoffs when Lampkin was healthy and beat us (20-0) with three long touchdown runs. Quarterback Kerwin Price had been hurt in the previous game and they beat us with the ground game."

"The 1986 team was convinced by Thursday that they would win the game, but I wasn't convinced until the first series of the game. And that will be the key Friday. Are we going to come out scared or are we going to hit people?"

The Warriors are third in the area in scoring defense (29 points) and haven't allowed a second-half point all year. Offense (See WARRIORS, Page 2B)

Shannon, Flyers wary of upset

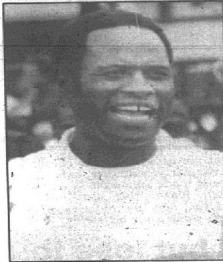

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Since the Warrior football team's 17-14 win over East St. Louis in 1986, the Flyers have reverted to their old ways of dominating Granite City, outscoring them 125-6 in three subsequent meetings. But with Granite City's revival this year and the showdown coming tomorrow, the question is: Can history repeat itself?

"Granite City is definitely improved," East St. Louis coach Bob Shannon said. "We scouted them last week against Collinsville and they really impressed me. They were down at half-time, but their players came out with some fire in the second half and won the game. That 4-0 record isn't a fluke. Granite City is a very good football team."

"But we can't get caught up in all the hype. Our goal is to become a better team each week. Proper execution will be our forte. Granite City's strong suit is defense. They haven't given up many points. They want to win this game."

While the Warriors have caught the area by surprise with their impressive start, the Flyers have been the usual dominating selves. East St. Louis has posted impressive victories

Bob Shannon
... No. 1 in nation against Sumner (36-6), Muskogee, Okla., (38-26), Chicago Robeson (33-8) and Belleville West (39-13).

Their biggest weapon through the first four games of the season has been the passing of junior quarterback DeAndre Singleton. He has made the smooth transition to the varsity level with four impressive outings. "The quarterback spot was our biggest concern coming into the season," Shannon said. "DeAndre had some big shoes to fill replacing Rollie Nevilles, but he's done a tremendous job running the offense. Throwing the football has been our strength in the early season. We like to get the ball to (Homer) Bush in the open field. His speed will take care of the additional yardage. Fortunately, our offensive line has given DeAndre the time to get his passes off."

Unlike past years, the Flyers feature a young offensive line. The unit has talent, but is going through the growing pains of varsity football. The unit's slow start has also affected the Flyers' running game.

Feeling the affects of that maturing process is running back Chris Moore. The junior, who rushed for 1300 yards last season, has gotten off to a slow start this year. "I've been in this business for a long time and I know that trying to repeat the efforts of a great season isn't always easy to do," Shannon said. "And I've tried to explain this to Chris. He's put on some additional weight. That's taken away some of his speed. I've suggested that he get on a weight program to

Robertson's free kick beats Kahoks

By Jim Woodcock
Staff writer

COLLINSVILLE — The Warriors' first experience playing soccer in Kahok Stadium provided no different a result than when they made their final visit to the Football Bowl in 1989.

Or when the teams met at Bob Guelker Field last October in the supersectional, or when the teams met earlier this year in Granite City.

In short, Granite City won again, and the Warriors have turned the area's top soccer rivalry into a lopsided one during the last two seasons. The Warriors' 1-0 win Tuesday in Collinsville was their seventh straight over the Kahoks, who are now 2-5-3 against teams led by Gene Baker.

The victory also all but ended a anticlimactic Southwestern Conference race. Granite City is 8-2 overall and 4-0 in the SWC. The Kahoks are next in the league, but well behind the Warriors, with a 2-2-1 mark (5-4-1 overall).

While the numbers are certainly overwhelming in Granite City's favor, the Warriors gained Tuesday's victory by the slimmest of margins — and not only in the sense of the 1-0 final.

Jay Robertson's third goal of the season, 32-30 into the first half, came on his direct kick from well outside the box and just caught the net inside the far post. The ball was deflected slightly — but slowed down considerably — before it spun just past diving Kahok goaltender Mike Bolandis.

Had the ball spun just inches to the right it would probably have hit the goalpost. Given its speed, it probably would have died there for Bolandis to retrieve. Kahok coach Ron Rowden suggested Bolandis might have made the difference by setting up just inches to his left.

(Bolandis) was out of position because he had to line the wall up, and the forwards should line the wall up," Rowden said. "He had to quickly go over there and when he was just coming back the ball was struck."

Such has been the fortunes in this rivalry in recent years. The Kahoks haven't beaten the Warriors on the field since the 1986 sectional finals. They did get two forfeit wins in 1983 due to the Granite City teachers strike.

"But actually, I'm quite pleased with the way we played tonight," Rowden added. "Like I told the kids, we set up a good atmosphere if and when we play Granite City in the supersectional. It's going to be a battle."

Meanwhile, Granite City can clinch a tie for the SWC title tonight when Belleville East visits the Gauntlet (JV game at 5:30). And it appears Robertson, who was expected to be one of the area's prolific scorers this season, may be getting on track for the stretch run and next week's Tournament of Champions.

"We had other opportunities in close that we didn't take advantage of," their keeper is a good keeper," Baker said. "But Jay is starting to make more intelligent cuts. He had a big goal against Quincy (Notre Dame). He's coming along, and he's had some injuries."

"From the standpoint of our defense, I thought it was really good. Pat Rich gave us some

Collinsville beats spikers

By Brian Henry

GRANITE CITY — If one match could sum up the Warrior volleyball team's season thus far, Tuesday's loss to Collinsville would be it. The Kahoks won 19-7, 13-15, 15-3 to raise their mark to 3-7. Granite City fell to 1-7 (1-4 in conference play).

"The girls were trying too hard tonight and they couldn't execute the way they should have," said Warrior coach Natalie Buster.

Collinsville opened the first game with a 7-0 run behind the serving of Kristi Hubert (16 points, 3 aces) and Tina Reed (4 points, 2 kills).

"Tina has been the one we've depended on this year," said Kahok coach Susan Jefferies. "Kristi is important as my setter and she is our motivating force."

The Warriors evened the match by taking the second game, but not without some difficulties. After taking a 9-5 lead, Granite City was victimized by another 7-0 run as Collinsville took a 12-9 lead. But Amy Krackowicki (10 points, 3 aces, 1 kill) reeled off the last four points for the win. Krackowicki had come in the game when Jennifer Harris was sidelined with a pulled leg muscle.

"Amy did exceptionally well considering she had to come in sively, junior Mike Vaughn has 266 yards on 50 carries and five touchdowns. Senior quarterback Bob Thomas, one of several players who remembers last year's 63-6 loss at Parsons Field, has thrown only 17 passes in four games, but he's completed 13 of them for 230 yards and two touchdowns.

Mike Nordstrom has caught five passes for 130 yards, including a 61-yard TD in Collinsville last week. Nordstrom has also done an outstanding job in the kicking game. He's 11 for 11 in extra points, is averaging 33.7 yards per punt and is getting good depth on the kickoffs. That will be important against the Flyers, who have been known to break a kick return or two.

leadership back there, and Jeff Stephens not only plays defense but gets into the attack."

Stephens probably was the best player on the field Tuesday, particularly with the ball. Stephens made numerous solo runs that froze the Collinsville defense, and the majority of the runs came after his steals.

NOTES: Tickets for the game will be on sale in the main office of the high school from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. today and Friday. Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students. The game will be broadcast on a tape-delayed basis on WGNU-AM (920) at 10 p.m. Friday. WGNU will also have tape-delayed broadcasts of the home games with Edwardsville (Oct. 5) and SLUH (Oct. 12) at 10 p.m. those nights.

make him a little stronger to carry that weight. And Chris must also realize that the line is still young. Timing, maturity and patience are the key."

But there is always pressure on the Flyers going into tomorrow's game? "Pressure is self-imposed," Shannon said. "I've told our players about what happened four years ago, but I haven't dwelled on 1986. We're just determined to go out and play our football game. If our game plan doesn't work, then we'll lose the game. We've been fortunate during the last few years because our program has had some talented athletes that have carried us up the ladder of success."

"But nothing is forever. It's not etched in stone that East St. Louis is going to win all the time. We've built a strong tradition at our school, but there are no guarantees. Granite City is a serious opponent. We've just got to be ready to play."

old," said Buster. "Losing Harris hurt me badly. She is so important to this team."

Hubert started the third game with four points, including two aces. Stephanie Kult tied the game at 4-4 with four points of her own. But it was downhill from there as another seven-point barrage did in the Warriors. Leann Johnston was the culprit as she finished with 11 points on the night.

"I wasn't happy with the game," said Jefferies. "We didn't prove much tonight."

Granite City travels to Belleville East tonight and participates in the Collinsville Invitational on Saturday. The JV won its second match in a row, 5-15, 15-12, 15-6. Harris and Jennifer Wortham (ankle) "are day-to-day." Four of Collinsville's losses have come to the area's elite—Belleville West, Belleville East, East St. Louis and Bethalto.

Golfers beat 2, but lose to Tigers again

By Brian Henry

WOOD RIVER — The Warrior golf team failed to beat Edwardsville for the third time this year, but managed to up its record to 15-6 with wins over Wood River and Roxana in a quad meet Tuesday at Belk Park.

Hunter safety course slated this weekend

Area residents will have an opportunity to learn the basic principles of safe hunting at the Department of Conservation hunter safety course scheduled at the VFW Hall, 21st Street and Washington, in Granite City.

The ten-hour course will be held in two sessions Sept. 27-29. Bill Sinkus, Conservation Education Representative, will instruct the program.

For more information about the course, call 676-7923.

The Tigers shot 158, 12 strokes ahead of Granite City (170). Roxana shot a 187 and Wood River rounded out the field with a 196.

"I felt going up there in the van that the kids weren't ready to play," said coach Russ Chappel. "That doesn't help us with the conference meet on Thursday."

Edwardsville had the only two golfers to break 40. John Droste led everyone with a 37 and Clay DeGiacoio shot a 39. Joe Brewer paced the Warriors with a 40, Bill McCormick and Dean Sheikh chipped in with 43s and Steve Ruins completed the scoring with a 44.

The Southwestern Conference meet is today at Clinton Hills Country Club in Belleville and will be a fair barometer of the Warriors' post-season chances.

"The course up there is set up tough, but we'll try to regroup and play well," said Chappel.

Sheldon group to unveil video

The Sheldon Arts Foundation, a nonprofit group formed last year to raise funds to buy and preserve the Sheldon Concert Hall and Ballroom in St. Louis, has accumulated a war chest of $50,000 and now has a major-league music video to help promote its cause.

The Sheldon is owned by Beverly Hills attorney and arts patron Eugene Golden, who wants to sell the 78-year-old structure at 3648 Washington Ave. for $2.2 million. Golden, who said the price is negotiable, supports the foundation's efforts but has said his primary goal is to sell the building.

Members of the Sheldon Arts Foundation, founded and headed by Walter Gunn, executive director of the Sheldon, fear the building could be sold to someone who would use it for something other than concerts and cultural events.

In an effort to promote their cause, Gunn and St. Louis musician Dale Benz last fall wrote and recorded a song called "Sweet Sheldon." The foundation then sold the cassettes to raise money; the first one brought $10,000 from an anonymous donor in Aspen, Colo.

The song now has become a music video, thanks to the help of West Coast producer-director Dan Leubental, who learned of the Sheldon's plight by listening to one of the cassettes. He enlisted the help of more than 350 recording and film professionals from across the country who came to St. Louis and volunteered their time and equipment to shoot the three-minute video Aug. 10 through 12.

The video will be premiered at a fundraiser Oct. 10-12 at the Sheldon. Several national artists have been invited to attend or play a part in the event and Bette Midler has expressed an interest to help the foundation, Gunn said.

In the meantime, television networks NBC and CBS are vying for the exclusive rights to do a feature on the Sheldon and the efforts to help it remain a concert hall, Gunn said.

"Our interest is to make certain the hall is never misused," Gunn said. "We want to keep it true to its cultural potential for all the people in St. Louis."

Horror, it lives

"The Rocky Horror Picture Show" seems to be the cult film that won't die in St. Louis. As recently reported here, the film is attracting about 100 patrons to midnight showings Friday and Saturday at the Village Square Theater north of Interstate 270 and Lindbergh Boulevard.

But there also are well-attended performances at midnight Friday at the Tivoli Theater, 6350 Delmar Blvd.; and midnight Friday and Saturday at the Avalon Theater, 4225 S. Kingshighway.

Beginning Oct. 5 the Tivoli also will add a midnight performance on Saturday, said Tivoli manager Craig Moore.

"We are currently averaging between 275 and 375 people a performance," he said. "As long as it continues to sell like that, we'll keep playing it."

Border collies to compete in national finals

BELLEVILLE—The remarkable ability of border collies to round up entire flocks of sheep will be demonstrated at Eckert's Orchard near Belleville when the 12th annual United States Border Collie Handlers' Association (USBCHA)

National Finals are held from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily Sept. 27-30. The nation's top 40 border collies will gather, drive, pen and shed sheep on a 30-acre course near Illinois 15 and Greenmount Road.

Tickets are $3, or $5 for an all-event ticket covering all four days. Group discounts are available and children under 12 are admitted free. Those who wish more information may call Eckert Orchards at 233-0513.

Fire engine display, rally

More than 175 fire engines, including antiques, will be on display at the Great Fire Engine Rally. This seventh annual event will be held Sunday, Oct. 7, at the History Museum in Forest Park.

The rally kicks off National Fire Prevention Week in the St. Louis area.

Teams of firefighters will compete in water fights, hose placement, bucket brigades and other events. Fire safety displays and skill demonstrations will be held throughout the day.

This year for the first time there will be a variety of activities coordinated by St. Louis Area Fire Educators (SAFE), including hands-on activities for children, plus fire safety demonstrations.

The Great Fire Engine Rally begins with a 9:30 a.m. parade through the park. Opening ceremonies start at 11 a.m. and the program will continue until about 4 p.m.

The rally is held in conjunction with the History Museum's exhibit on volunteer firefighting in the mid-19th century.

Admission and parking are free, and concessions will be available.

State workers can sign up for insurance

SPRINGFIELD—The benefit package now offered to State of Illinois employees will soon be expanded with the addition of optional, employee-paid, long-term care insurance.

The plan will be available to state employees and retirees, their spouses, parents and parents-in-law.

The announcement was made by Illinois Department of Central Management Services (CMS) Director Gene Reineke.

After an extensive competitive bidding process, the Travelers was chosen to underwrite the plan, which is effective Jan. 1, 1991.

A two-month enrollment period will begin Oct. 1.

Only 3 percent of nursing home costs are paid, on average, by Medicare and private health insurance. Long-term care insurance was designed to bridge that gap," said Reineke.

"Not only does it provide protection against the potentially devastating financial consequences of nursing home care, but this plan also covers non-institutional services designed to prolong independent living by senior citizens. And the group makes it more affordable."

"The plan also can help preserve the financial independence of those employees and family members who might otherwise have to deplete their savings to pay for long-term care."

The plan covers nursing home care and community-based services, including adult day care, home health and respite care.

Respite coverage gives temporary relief to those caring for elderly relatives. Employees can select their own level of coverage: $25, $35 or $50 a day for community-based care or $50, $70 or $100 a day for nursing home care.

The maximum benefit is based on the coverage amount selected. For instance, if an employee or family member chooses the $100 a day nursing home benefit, the plan will pay up to a maximum of $150,000. With the $50 or $70 a day nursing home option, the plan pays up to $75,000 or $105,000, respectively.

Premiums, which can be paid over a lifetime or a 20-year period, are based on the participant's age upon enrollment.

A 50-year-old who chooses the $70 per day nursing home care benefit with lifetime payments would pay an annual premium of $227.

To be eligible for benefits, policyholders must be disabled for at least 60 days, need assistance with two or more activities of daily living or be diagnosed as having senile dementia.

The plan offers guaranteed issue for active full-time state employees during the enrollment period of Oct. 1 through Nov. 30. During that time, employees can enroll without a health status review.

The plan also includes an optional inflation benefit that automatically increases daily benefits up to 5 percent based on changes in the Consumer Price Index.

Less money going toward food expense

The following article is by Mary Lou Garbe, Extension adviser, home economics, the University of Illinois.

Food prices increased last year more than any year this decade, partially due to the lingering effects of the 1988 drought. Consumer spending has also increased, yet consumers are spending a lower percentage of their income on food products.

Food prices in 1989 averaged 5.8 percent above those in 1988, the largest price increase since 1981, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Grocery store food prices climbed 6.8 percent, up from 4.2 percent in 1988, while food bought in restaurants rose only 1.6 percent.

Consumers paid higher prices for poultry, cereals and bakery products and fats and oils. Egg prices increased over 26 percent above the year before.

There was also a stronger demand, and higher prices, for fresh vegetables with a 10 percent increase. Among all food categories, consumers spent the most money on bakery products, beef and dairy products.

USDA figures show that consumers spent more actual dollars in the grocery store for home-prepared food items than for food eaten away from home.
